SCHOOL BELLS RING AGAIN

Throughout Nodaway County today the toll of the school bells call tomorrow's citizens back to study, and the ole swimmin' hole, the favorite fishing nook and the playhouse must give way to the school room and its daily routine.

For many of Nodaway County's tiny tots, the school bell calls for the first time and mother, brave and true, gives up her "baby" to the new experience.

For others in high schools throughout the county, the school bells' ring today means the beginning of the final year and the familiar clang brings thoughts of new responsibilities.

But for old and young alike, today's school bells in Nodaway County future leaders from play to preparation for greater things.

DOMESTIC ISSUES MOST IMPORTANT

LA FOLLETTE OPENS HIS INDEPENDENT CAMPAIGN.

WOULD CURB MONOPOLIES

Wisconsin Senator Would Also Revise Tariff—Wheeler Charges Wall Street Control.

Washington, Sept. 1. — Addressing himself almost entirely to domestic affairs and declaring that the Republican and Democratic programs for revival of Europe were to divert the attention of the American people from the corruptions in their own government, Senator Robert M. La Follette this afternoon officially opened his independent campaign for the presidency.

"The Progressives come to you," he said, "with a constructive national program framed in the interest and for the benefit of the mass of the people.

"Abraham Lincoln foretold the condition we now face and clearly stated the principle to which all Progressives adhere when he said to secure to each laborer the whole output of his labor as nearly as possible is a worthy object of any good government.

"Since the Civil War, however, the government has bestowed privileges and fostered, through administrative favoritism, a new system under which a few are enabled to live on the labor of many others."

La Follette promised, if elected, to reorganize the federal trade commission and the United States tariff commission, and to curb the powers of great monolopy.

He promised to restore agriculture from the unjust burdens laid upon it by the Esch-Cummins act, and the deflation policies of the federal reserve board. He would also revise the Fordney-McCumber tariff act.

There was no discussion of Republican or Democratic policies and the candidates in LaFollette's speech with the exception of their foreign policies.

Boston, Sept. 1.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, opening his independent vice-presidential campaign here today, charged the Republican and Democratic parties with being under the control of one single, dominant power—Wall street— and declared that only through the election of the LaFollette ticket could the government "be restored to the will of the people."

President Coolidge, Charles G. Dawes, and John W. Davis were singled out by name for Wheeler's attack.

Transcending all others 'economy and industrial freedom" is the issue of the campaign, Wheeler told his audience.

Besides this, the tariff, foreign relations, and all other campaign issues sink into insignificance, he said.

Miss Turner said this morning that the Nodaway County Red Cross Chapter was indeed proud to have its exhibit receive such recognition and was indeed glad to have it sent to Washington for display purposes.

About ten lengths of rails was torn up when cars went in the ditch. The freight cars and engine were put back on the track and traffic was resumed about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

"FULL DINNER PAIL" POLICIES STRESSED

COOLIDGE OUTLINES HIS VIEWS ON LABOR.

"COMMON SENSE" URGED

President Declares American Labor Earnings Have Greater Purchasing Power Than Any Nation

Washington, Sept. 1.—Enunciating the "full dinner pail" policies which swept William McKinley into office in 1896, President Coolidge today outlined his views on labor, pledged himself that the administration's post-war deflation policies would never be extended to labor, and pledged for a "common sense" American brand of government.

The President delivered his labor platform in the East room of the White House before a group of several hundred representatives of labor—union and non-union alike—who had come to pledge their support to the Republican ticket.

Mr. Coolidge showed with statistics that American labor earnings had greater purchasing power than labor in any other nation of the world. He cited the protective tariff, restrictive immigration, operation of the federal reserve system, dissolution of the unemployment era of 1921, and the government's economy taxation program as responsible for this condition.

The President then declared himself against a 'labor government" and indirectly attacked the candidacy of Senator La Follette as sponsored by the American Federation of Labor.

DAVIS MAKES PLEA FOR WORLD PEACE

TOILING CLASSES PAY FOR WAR, HE DECLARES.

BRYAN SCORES G. O. P.

Assails Fordney-McCumber Tariff Bill —Flays Republicans for Alleged Corruption in Government.

Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 1.—In the birthplace of his political career, John W. Davis today laid down a governmental creed for American labor, launched a slashing attack upon the "forces of human greed," and sounded a call to the working masses to unite in efforts of world peace.

Speaking before several thousand workingmen at a Labor Day rally here, the Democratic candidate swerved from politics to discuss problems confronting labor in its daily life. His address was climaxed by a passionate appeal for world peace and world disarmament 'because the burdens of war fall with a crushing weight" upon the toiling classes.

Davis issued a warning to labor to safeguard its hard won economic progress, and in expressing his own labor policies went far beyond the platform adopted by the Democratic convention in New York. Where the convention trod lightly on the question of child labor, he openly flayed the employment of children. Where the platform ignored labor injunctions, he bitterly condemned such court actions, and where the platform advocated governmental regulation of hours of labor, he earnestly urged labor to bargain collectively for its working conditions.

There were only two political notes in the entire speech. The first came when Davis struck an indirect blow at Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney-general, by bitterly flaying "abuse of injunctions in labor disputes." Daugherty involved the injunction to end the great railroad strike of 1922.

The second instance came when he announced "isolationists" as the blind leaders of the blind.

The high note of his speech was an appeal for world peace.

Davis had reminded his audience that his political career had started in Wheeling, fourteen years ago, when a Democratic convention drafted him for Congress. He declared, however, he did not intend to talk politics on his present visit.

Elk Point, S. D., Sept. 1.—Governor Charles W. Bryan, Democratic nominee for the vice-presidency, addressed a large gathering of South Dakota farmers today, and directly charged the Republican party with responsibility for the period of depression from which agriculture is now emerging.

Bryan declared the Wilson administration was responsible for the enactment of more progressive legislation than was ever passed before under any administration. He also charged Wilson's administration with the most just tariff bill in history, with passage of the federal reserve act, and with the enactment of the anti-injunction law which prevented governments through indiscriminate use of the injunction.

Governor Bryan charged the Republican tariff bill with increasing the cost of living three and a half billion dollars a year without any benefit to the great mass of people, and accused the administration with misuse of the federal reserve system.

Bryan then denounced alleged corruption in government under the Republican administration.

WORLD TRADE IMPROVING.

World trade during the first six months of the year showed a distinct gain over the corresponding period of the year preceding. A trade review report shows that the increase in exports from this country exceeded the decline in imports and that 17 out of the 21 principal countries reported trade totals larger than those of the 1923 period.

In the first half of the year the United States imported merchandise and commodities valued at $1,852,702,000 as against $2,807,621,000 in the corresponding period of 1923. Exports on the other hand, gained from $1,905,000,000 to $2,089,672,000. In the first six months of this year imports declined 11.2 per cent while exports increased 9.6 per cent. Reports from various other large exporting and importing nations are of a similar nature.

The satisfactory results obtained by the conferees in the London conference should further stimulate a condition which even now is at its best. With the releasing of the vast stores of merchandise which have accumulated in this country, and the opening of new markets on this side for increased European output, the report to be issued at the end of the year should disclose further encouraging conditions

PARISIANS COMPLAIN.

Parisians wishing to visit America are protesting the treatment which they say is accorded them at the American Passport Bureau in Paris. They cite that they are forced to wait two or three days in line to make application for visas, and they also allege a lack of politeness on the part of the American officials.

An investigation which was conducted shortly after the complaints were made revealed that the first complaint was plainly justified. The second complaint was attributed to the fact that the passport bureau is overworked. Since the new American immigration law went into effect the Paris office has been undermanned and an insufficient staff has been obliged to shoulder much additional work.

These complaints evidently were made in good faith, and they should be investigated promtly by the United States government. The government should make provisions for an adequate staff so that foreigners wishing to visit America may be accorded the same courtesies and fairness that Americans wish when they travel abroad.

NELSON FOR GOVERNOR.

(St. Joseph Gazette).

Both political parties in Missouri are to be congratulated upon their nominee for governor.

Dr. Arthur Nelson, the Democratic nominee, and Mr. Sam A. Baker, the Republican nominee, are both men of splendid character and attainments.

The voters, however, must make a choice between their candidates and it is the opinion of The Gazette, that a careful study of the candidates and the needs of the state at this particular time, make Doctor Nelson, the Democratic candidate the more desirable.

In the matter of the personal character of the candidates, there is no difference—both are men of irreproachable character.

The difference is to be found in the training and economic positions of the candidates.

Mr. Baker is a school man. His training has all been along that line, and in school matters he is undoubtedly capable and efficient, but Missouri has other interests and other questions which demand a man of the broadest experience and training.

Doctor Nelson is a graduate physician who has seen fit to spend his life living on, and managing his big Cooper County farm.

Missouri is an agricultural state—a man who has personal experience with the farmer and his brothers, is at this time, most desirable—especially if that man is also a business man with other interests so that he does not bring to his task the colored views of any particular class. The farmers of Missouri know Doctor Nelson as a prominent agriculturist and stock breeder, who is thoroughly familiar with all the problems of the farmer. There would be something re-assuring to the rural population of Missouri in the election of Doctor Nelson.

Coupled with his thorough knowledge of the farmer and his problems, Doctor Nelson is a banker and business man who is equally familiar with the problems of the banker and merchant. As an employer of labor, he is not unfamiliar with the problems of labor also.

It seems perfectly clear that such a man in the governorship is peculiarly qualified to give to all the people a wise, capable administration.

Another item of importance is the position of Doctor Nelson, toward the good road program. Both are good road advocates, but Doctor Nelson lives on dirt roads. He knows the farmers' viewpoint. He also knows from personal experience, the relation of good roads to the country church, school, home and market. Doctor Nelson, leading a good road program, would have tremendous influence in the rural sections, where there has been more or less opposition to road building.

That he is qualified to unite in a peculiar way, the rural and urban population of Missouri in a great progressive program for road, schools, agricultural and sane business developments, is unquestionably true and justifies The Gazette in the belief that he should be elected governor.

MOVING PICTURES

Should a wife be a "clinging vine?" Modern husbands with modern ideas say no.

But there are still quite a number of men of the old school who take the opposite view.

For Katherine MacDonald, as Betty Austin in this very human drama of American life, is anything but an old-fashioned girl.

The clinging vine idea gets a decided setback in "The Lonely Road." This is another B. P. Schulberg production.

A cream separator, a large quantity of meat and lard, and a number of other articles were destroyed by the blaze.

Labor Day and Wayland Richards Is 20 Years Old

September 1, Labor Day, and the birthday of perhaps one of the youngest business men in the city—and he said this morning that this was labor day for him in every sense of the word.

Wayland Richards, junior member of the firm of Richards & Son, hardware concern located on the south side of the square, was born at Blue Hill, Neb., September 1, 1904.

Mr. Richards was graduated from the high school at Hiawatha, Kan., and attended the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College one year.

He was in the hardware business at Hiawatha, Kan., five years previous to coming to Maryville. His father, R. W. Richards, with Leonard H. Geiss, bought out the south side hardware store a little over a year ago and recently the firm name was changed to Richards & Son, with Wayland Richards as the junior partner.

He has charge of the cream separator department of the store, handling DeLaval supplies. At 20 years of age and partner in the hardware firm, Wayland Richards is one of the popular young business men of Maryville.

A New Homer Croy Story of Missouri

(Kansas City Star.)

Homer Croy, author of 'West of the Water Tower,'' will bring out a new novel next month. The title is "R. F. D. No. 3." Mr. Croy spent the winter in France writing the book. He writes from London about his work:

"It is a Missouri novel, with some of the scenes laid in Kansas City. I hope I haven't slipped up on the descriptions. It is a real farm novel. Most of the so-called farm novels start on the farm, but about the third chapter the hero packs the old patent grip and goes to the Great City. But mine doesn't. It opens in the hog lot and ends in the hay mow. There is probably more manure in it than in any other novel ever written in America. The big emotional climax is where the hero hauls out the spring manure and the mules run away.

"The story is laid on the farm where I was born and where I wrote my first stuff for The Star. It will probably be the first money we ever made out of that farm. I plowed corn there until I was 22 and then drifted off to the fast life of the city. I am planning on running back to Missouri in October to get material for a new novel."

Now that you're looking over the Fall Wardrobe---

About this time of year you will begin going through the family wardrobe, sorting out apparel for Fall and Winter. And, of course, like every family, your folk have garments that are "too good to throw away," yet not quite presentable for wear.

There is that wonderful evening gown, for instance. A wee bit faded, perhaps, yet treasured because it is "such lovely material." The cleaner's art will make it radiantly fresh again. Just the thing for those early Fall parties—until you look around and decide just how you'll have the new one made.

And, would you believe it, we can clean that luxurious ostrich fan so perfectly one would declare it to be a brand new creation, fresh from the shop.

Now, too, is the time to brighten curtains, draperies, table covers and cushions, and bring a note of cheerfulness to liven those dark, dreary Fall days.

What a relief it is to be able to turn over these garments and household plenishings to a responsible cleaning establishment! No fussing or mussing. No costly experiments. No loss of time or temper. We call for your bundle and deliver everything charmingly fresh and spotless.

Why "Take a Chance?"

More than a million dollars worth of fabrics are ruined each year by persons who take a chance with "home treatments."

Why gamble with your garments?

Send your work to a strong, responsible company, backed by skilled craftsmen and modern equipment.

Our determination is to serve you in a friendly, helpful manner that will command your PERMANENT patronage. When you think of cleaning, we want you to think of us.

Choose your cleaner as carefully as you choose your clothes!

Epinard Races in Classy Field of 12 Entries Today

The first of the three international races in which Epinard, the famous French thoroughbred, will race the best of America's stables, will be run this afternoon at Belmont Park. The race will be for 3-year-olds and over and the distance six furlongs, the purse $25,000. It will be the fourth race of the afternoon. The entries:

Worthmore, Miss Star, Wilderness, Epinard, Wise Counselor, Snob II, Gashawk, Ladkin, Rialtoo Baffling, Zev and Little Chief.

Although referred to as a French horse, here are some facts that apertain to his American relationship: He is descended from Tracery, one of August Belmont's American sires. He is trained by an American, Gene Leigh, and he is ridden in all his races by an American jockey, Everett Haynes.

Zev, Epinard's foremost contender is favorite for the short race, and is considered about the best sprinter on the track.

There are two more races besides the one today in which Epinard is scheduled to run:

September 27 at Aqueduct at a distance of one mile and on October 11 at Latonia track, distance one and one-fourth miles, for a purse of $50,000.

Epinard's Trainer and Judge Dawson Buddies

Eugene Leigh Was Exercise Boy for Fayette Smith During Years 1874-75 In Maryville.

The racing of Epinard, the 4-year-old French horse, that makes initial appearance at Belmont Park today, has more than unusual interest in the vicinity of Maryville, as the trainer, Eugene Leigh, is known here and attended the Maryville Public schools.

In 1874, Fayette Smith, who had a training stable on Second street, brought young Leigh from Illinois, then 12 years old, to Maryville as an exercise boy. He went to school here in 1874-75, according to Judge John M. Dawson, who was one of Leigh's playmates and chums.

Judge Dawson said this morning that Leigh is known by several of the old residents of the city who attended school at the time Leigh was here. Leigh went back to Illinois from Maryville and since then has owned a number of racing horses in the East before going to France as a trainer.

Washington Leads New York by One and Half Games

St. Louis Cuts Detroit's Lead for Third Place—Giants Leading Pittsburgh by 2 Games.

Much interest is being manifest in the race in the American League between the Senators and Yanks, with Detroit and St. Louis fighting for third position but there is also some attention being paid to the National League, featuring the sensational climb of the Pittsburgh club on the Giants.

Although Washington lost to the Yankees Saturday in a close struggle 1-2 with the losers getting more hits, the Capitol team came back yesterday and defeated New York in a ten inning fracas 4 to 2. This gives Washington a lead of a game and a half over New York.

Washington has won 74 and lost 55 games for a percentage of .574 and New York has won 71 and lost 55 games for a percentage of .563. Mogridge and Marberry pitched for the Senators while Bush hurled for the Yanks. Rice, playing right field, knocked a double in the tenth inning, scoring Ruel and Leibold, that brought in the winning runs for Washington. Today Washington plays a double-header with Phfladelphia and New York is scheduled for a double-header with Boston.

St. Louis cut Detroit's percentage for third place to two games, winning 14 to 4. Detroit has won 68 and lost 59 games for a percentage of .536 and St. Louis has won 66 and lost 61 games for a percentage of .520.

Pittsburgh by defeating Chicago 2 to 0 yesterday cut New York's lead to two games. Brooklyn made a clean sweep of the series with New York and won from the Giants 3 to 2. Cincinnati defeated St. Louis 5 to 4. Standing of the five leading teams in the National League:

New York .605; Pittsburg .589; Brooklyn .571; Chicago .544; and Cincinnati .519.

We never try to get even with our enemy when that enemy is ourself.

AUGUST A WARMER MONTH THAN USUAL

MEAN TEMPERATURE FOR THE MONTH WAS 77.4 DEGREES.

PRECIPITATION SLIGHT

Hottest Day of Month August 26 When Mercury Climbed to 100—Lowest 51 on August 10.

The weather for the month just passed was marked by higher temperatures than the average and a slight amount of rainfall. The highest temperature recorded by J. R. Brink, official weather observer, was 100 degrees on August 26, and the lowest temperature during the month was 51 degrees, recorded on August 10.

Mr. Brink reports that the mean maximum temperature for August was 90.6 degrees while the mean minimum temperature was 64.2 degrees. The mean temperature for the month was 77.4 degrees.

The mean term temperature for the month of August since Mr. Brink has been recording the weather is 73.7, the mean temperature for the month just past being thus 3.7 degrees higher.

The highest mean temperature was recorded in August, 1913, when it was 81.3 degrees and the lowest mean temperature for the same month was recorded at 68.4 degrees in 1915.

Mr. Brink gives the reason for the mean minimum temperature of 64.2 degrees during the past month on account of the night temperatures when the mercury fell below the 70 mark.

The highest temperature that Mr. Brink has ever recorded was August 4, 1918, when Maryville blistered under a burning sun, the thermometer rising to 110 degrees. The lowest temperature that he has officially recorded was on August 27, 1906, and again August 26, 1910, when 45 degrees was registered.

Mr. Brink reports that only 1.66 inches of precipitation was noted during the month just past. The highest amount of rainfall was in 1903 when 11.63 inches of precipitation was recorded and the lightest amount of precipitation during any August on record is .52 of an inch in 1909. Mr. Brink reported nineteen clear days, eight cloudy days and four partially cloudy days during August, 1924.

The precipitation yesterday up until 7 o'clock this morning was .27 of an inch, Mr. Brink said this noon.

Union Services are Concluded Last Night

Rev. B. F. Cline Delivers Sermon on "Christ and His Cross"—Many Persons are Present.

The last of the series of union church services during the summer months was concluded last night when the Rev. B. F. Cline delivered a sermon on that of "Christ and His Cross."

The keynote of the Rev. Cline's talk was the fact that when persons come to the place to take up their cross the physical body might shirk the duty imposed upon it but if the person will ally himself with his religion he will then go forth to bear his burden as did Christ at Gallilee.

"Some people marvel that Christ did shirk from the last task imposed upon Him but this is not to be marveled at if we would realize that Jesus was in the physical the same as you and I," said the Reverend Cline, "but Christ was divine in His soul and so when He found that the task of bearing the cross was required He did not shirk."

"When we come to pray our prayers we find ourselves answering these prayers ourselves if they are made in the proper spirit. While we may ask to be relieved of some of our duties, yet when we find that these are inevitable we will go on our way and bear our cross just as Jesus did," concluded the Reverend Mr. Cline.

Preceding the preaching, a vocal solo, "I Am a Pilgrim," was given by Fred Lewis.

A large crowd attended the services which were held at the Presbyterian Church.

Enters Chicago Hospital.

Miss Bernice Cast left this morning for Chicago where she will enter the Christian Church Hospital for a three years' course in nurses' training.

OLD FRIENDS MEET.

Prince, one of the equestrian members of Battery C, met his old friend and former rider while at Camp Fort Riley this summer. Prince was tied to a supply wagon when instruction Sergeant Newland passed by and recognized the horse.

Sergt. Newland, according to Brint Embree of the local battery gave a peculiar whistle and called the horse by name. Prince turned and recognized Newland and nearly broke his halter in an attempt to go to where Newland was standing.

A few minutes later, according to members of the local battery, it was hard to tell who was the most pleased in the accidental meeting, the horse or the man.

Prince served with Sergeant Newland from 1917 to 1921. In addition to the regular service Prince is a high hurdler and has cleared the bars at 6 ft., 5 inches. A number of pictures of Prince were in the possession of Sergt. Newland, which showed the horse in action on the high hurdles.

SCHOOL BELLS RING AGAIN

Throughout Nodaway County today the toll of the school bells call tomorrow's citizens back to study, and the ole swimmin' hole, the favorite fishing nook and the playhouse must give way to the school room and its daily routine.

For many of Nodaway County's tiny tots, the school bell calls for the first time and mother, brave and true, gives up her "baby" to the new experience.

For others in high schools throughout the county, the school bells' ring today means the beginning of the final year and the familiar clang brings thoughts of new responsibilities.

But for old and young alike, today's school bells in Nodaway County future leaders from play to preparation for greater things.

DOMESTIC ISSUES MOST IMPORTANT

LA FOLLETTE OPENS HIS INDEPENDENT CAMPAIGN.

WOULD CURB MONOPOLIES

Wisconsin Senator Would Also Revise Tariff—Wheeler Charges Wall Street Control.

Washington, Sept. 1. — Addressing himself almost entirely to domestic affairs and declaring that the Republican and Democratic programs for revival of Europe were to divert the attention of the American people from the corruptions in their own government, Senator Robert M. La Follette this afternoon officially opened his independent campaign for the presidency.

"The Progressives come to you," he said, "with a constructive national program framed in the interest and for the benefit of the mass of the people.

"Abraham Lincoln foretold the condition we now face and clearly stated the principle to which all Progressives adhere when he said to secure to each laborer the whole output of his labor as nearly as possible is a worthy object of any good government.

"Since the Civil War, however, the government has bestowed privileges and fostered, through administrative favoritism, a new system under which a few are enabled to live on the labor of many others."

La Follette promised, if elected, to reorganize the federal trade commission and the United States tariff commission, and to curb the powers of great monolopy.

He promised to restore agriculture from the unjust burdens laid upon it by the Esch-Cummins act, and the deflation policies of the federal reserve board. He would also revise the Fordney-McCumber tariff act.

There was no discussion of Republican or Democratic policies and the candidates in LaFollette's speech with the exception of their foreign policies.

Boston, Sept. 1.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, opening his independent vice-presidential campaign here today, charged the Republican and Democratic parties with being under the control of one single, dominant power—Wall street— and declared that only through the election of the LaFollette ticket could the government "be restored to the will of the people."

President Coolidge, Charles G. Dawes, and John W. Davis were singled out by name for Wheeler's attack.

Transcending all others 'economy and industrial freedom" is the issue of the campaign, Wheeler told his audience.

Besides this, the tariff, foreign relations, and all other campaign issues sink into insignificance, he said.

The Braille transcripts and beginners' outfit of the Nodaway County Red Cross Chapter that was on exhibit at the State Fair at Sedalia will be sent for exhibition purposes to Washington, D. C., for the Volunteer Service Exhibit at the Annual Convention of the Red Cross October 6-9.

Miss Betty Turner, executive secretary of the Nodaway County Red Cross Chapter, has received a communication from the Division office of the Red Cross at St. Louis, saying that the Braille exhibit from this county "would be particularly acceptable" for the Volunteer Service Exhibit at the Annual Conference.

Miss Turner said this morning that the Nodaway County Red Cross Chapter was indeed proud to have its exhibit receive such recognition and was indeed glad to have it sent to Washington for display purposes.

The cause of the freight train going off the rails was not known, according to station agent of the Great Western at Parnell this morning.

About ten lengths of rails was torn up when cars went in the ditch. The freight cars and engine were put back on the track and traffic was resumed about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

"FULL DINNER PAIL" POLICIES STRESSED

COOLIDGE OUTLINES HIS VIEWS ON LABOR.

"COMMON SENSE" URGED

President Declares American Labor Earnings Have Greater Purchasing Power Than Any Nation

Washington, Sept. 1.—Enunciating the "full dinner pail" policies which swept William McKinley into office in 1896, President Coolidge today outlined his views on labor, pledged himself that the administration's post-war deflation policies would never be extended to labor, and pledged for a "common sense" American brand of government.

The President delivered his labor platform in the East room of the White House before a group of several hundred representatives of labor—union and non-union alike—who had come to pledge their support to the Republican ticket.

Mr. Coolidge showed with statistics that American labor earnings had greater purchasing power than labor in any other nation of the world. He cited the protective tariff, restrictive immigration, operation of the federal reserve system, dissolution of the unemployment era of 1921, and the government's economy taxation program as responsible for this condition.

The President then declared himself against a 'labor government" and indirectly attacked the candidacy of Senator La Follette as sponsored by the American Federation of Labor.

Large Crowd Attends Tractor Demonstration

Is Held On Alfred Jones Farm Near Union Schoolhouse Friday Afternoon—Given By Holt Supply Co.

A large crowd attended the tractor demonstration held by the Holt Supply Co., at the Alfred Jones farm near the Union schoolhouse Friday afternoon.

The new 15-27 John Deere tractor was used in the demonstration, pulling a three-bottom fourteen-inch John Deere plow. The tractor plowed at the rate of three and a half miles an hour, using only the high gear throughout the demonstration.

The Holt Supply Co., is planning other demonstrations of farm machinery.

Mrs. W. J. Cross and little son, Billy, of Blackwell, Okla., arrived in Maryville at noon today to visit her mother, Mrs. Laura Biscoe, for several weeks.

DAVIS MAKES PLEA FOR WORLD PEACE

TOILING CLASSES PAY FOR WAR, HE DECLARES.

BRYAN SCORES G. O. P.

Assails Fordney-McCumber Tariff Bill —Flays Republicans for Alleged Corruption in Government.

Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 1.—In the birthplace of his political career, John W. Davis today laid down a governmental creed for American labor, launched a slashing attack upon the "forces of human greed," and sounded a call to the working masses to unite in efforts of world peace.

Speaking before several thousand workingmen at a Labor Day rally here, the Democratic candidate swerved from politics to discuss problems confronting labor in its daily life. His address was climaxed by a passionate appeal for world peace and world disarmament 'because the burdens of war fall with a crushing weight" upon the toiling classes.

Davis issued a warning to labor to safeguard its hard won economic progress, and in expressing his own labor policies went far beyond the platform adopted by the Democratic convention in New York. Where the convention trod lightly on the question of child labor, he openly flayed the employment of children. Where the platform ignored labor injunctions, he bitterly condemned such court actions, and where the platform advocated governmental regulation of hours of labor, he earnestly urged labor to bargain collectively for its working conditions.

There were only two political notes in the entire speech. The first came when Davis struck an indirect blow at Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney-general, by bitterly flaying "abuse of injunctions in labor disputes."

Daugherty involved the injunction to end the great railroad strike of 1922.

The second instance came when he announced "isolationists" as the blind leaders of the blind.

The high note of his speech was an appeal for world peace.

Davis shad reminded his audience that his political career had started in Wheeling, fourteen years ago, when a Democratic convention drafted him for Congress. He declared, however, he did not intend to talk politics on his present visit.

Elk Point, S. D., Sept. 1.—Governor Charles W. Bryan, Democratic nominee for the vice-presidency, addressed a large gathering of South Dakota farmers today, and directly charged the Republican party with responsibility for the period of depression from which agriculture is now emerging.

Bryan declared the Wilson administration was responsible for the enactment of more progressive legislation than was ever passed before under any administration. He also charged Wilson's administration with the most just tariff bill in history, with passage of the federal reserve act, and with the enactment of the anti-injunction law which prevented governments through indiscriminate use of the injunction.

Governor Bryan charged the Republican tariff bill with increasing the cost of living three and a half billion dollars a year without any benefit to the great mass of people, and accused the administration with misuse of the federal reserve system.

Bryan then denounced alleged corruption in government under the Republican administration.

WORLD TRADE IMPROVING.

World trade during the first six months of the year showed a distinct gain over the corresponding period of the year preceding. A trade review report shows that the increase in exports from this country exceeded the decline in imports and that 17 out of the 21 principal countries reported trade totals larger than those of the 1923 period.

In the first half of the year the United States imported merchandise and commodities valued at $1,852,702,000 as against $2,807,621,000 in the corresponding period of 1923. Exports on the other hand, gained from $1,905,000,000 to $2,089,672,000. In the first six months of this year imports declined 11.2 per cent while exports increased 9.6 per cent. Reports from various other large exporting and importing nations are of a similar nature.

The satisfactory results obtained by the conferees in the London conference should further stimulate a condition which even now is at its best. With the releasing of the vast stores of merchandise which have accumulated in this country, and the opening of new markets on this side for increased European output, the report to be issued at the end of the year should disclose further encouraging conditions

PARISIANS COMPLAIN.

Parisians wishing to visit America are protesting the treatment which they say is accorded them at the American Passport Bureau in Paris. They cite that they are forced to wait two or three days in line to make application for visas, and they also allege a lack of politeness on the part of the American officials.

An investigation which was conducted shortly after the complaints were made revealed that the first complaint was plainly justified. The second complaint was attributed to the fact that the passport bureau is overworked. Since the new American immigration law went into effect the Paris office has been undermanned and an insufficient staff has been obliged to shoulder much additional work.

These complaints evidently were made in good faith, and they should be investigated promtly by the United States government. The government should make provisions for an adequate staff so that foreigners wishing to visit America may be accorded the same courtesies and fairness that Americans wish when they travel abroad.

NELSON FOR GOVERNOR.

(St. Joseph Gazette).

Both political parties in Missouri are to be congratulated upon their nominee for governor.

Dr. Arthur Nelson, the Democratic nominee, and Mr. Sam A. Baker, the Republican nominee, are both men of splendid character and attainments.

The voters, however, must make a choice between their candidates and it is the opinion of The Gazette, that a careful study of the candidates and the needs of the state at this particular time, make Doctor Nelson, the Democratic candidate the more desirable.

In the matter of the personal character of the candidates, there is no difference—both are men of irreproachable character.

The difference is to be found in the training and economic positions of the candidates.

Mr. Baker is a school man. His training has all been along that line, and in school matters he is undoubtedly capable and efficient, but Missouri has other interests and other questions which demand a man of the broadest experience and training.

Doctor Nelson is a graduate physician who has seen fit to spend his life living on, and managing his big Cooper County farm.

Missouri is an agricultural state—a man who has personal experience with the farmer and his brothers, is at this time, most desirable—especially if that man is also a business man with other interests so that he does not bring to his task the colored views of any particular class. The farmers of Missouri know Doctor Nelson as a prominent agriculturist and stock breeder, who is thoroughly familiar with all the problems of the farmer. There would be something re-assuring to the rural population of Missouri in the election of Doctor Nelson.

Coupled with his thorough knowledge of the farmer and his problems, Doctor Nelson is a banker and business man who is equally familiar with the problems of the banker and merchant. As an employer of labor, he is not unfamiliar with the problems of labor also.

It seems perfectly clear that such a man in the governorship is peculiarly qualified to give to all the people a wise, capable administration.

Another item of importance is the position of Doctor Nelson, toward the good road program. Both are good road advocates, but Doctor Nelson lives on dirt roads. He knows the farmers' viewpoint. He also knows from personal experience, the relation of good roads to the country church, school, home and market. Doctor Nelson, leading a good road program, would have tremendous influence in the rural sections, where there has been more or less opposition to road building.

That he is qualified to unite in a peculiar way, the rural and urban population of Missouri in a great progressive program for road, schools, agricultural and sane business developments, is unquestionably true and justifies The Gazette in the belief that he should be elected governor.

MOVING PICTURES

Should a wife be a "clinging vine?" Modern husbands with modern ideas say no.

But there are still quite a number of men of the old school who take the opposite view.

For Katherine MacDonald, as Betty Austin in this very human drama of American life, is anything but an old-fashioned girl.

The clinging vine idea gets a decided setback in "The Lonely Road." This is another B. P. Schulberg production.

Labor Day and Wayland Richards Is 20 Years Old

September 1, Labor Day, and the birthday of perhaps one of the youngest business men in the city—and he said this morning that this was labor day for him in every sense of the word.

Wayland Richards, junior member of the firm of Richards & Son, hardware concern located on the south side of the square, was born at Blue Hill, Neb., September 1, 1904.

Mr. Richards was graduated from the high school at Hiawatha, Kan., and attended the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College one year.

He was in the hardware business at Hiawatha, Kan., five years previous to coming to Maryville. His father, R. W. Richards, with Leonard H. Geiss, bought out the south side hardware store a little over a year ago and recently the firm name was changed to Richards & Son, with Wayland Richards as the junior partner.

He has charge of the cream separator department of the store, handling De-Laval supplies. At 20 years of age and partner in the hardware firm, Wayland Richards is one of the popular young business men of Maryville.

A New Homer Croy Story of Missouri

(Kansas City Star.)

Homer Croy, author of 'West of the Water Tower," will bring out a new novel next month. The title is "R. F. D. No. 3." Mr. Croy spent the winter in France writing the book. He writes from London about his work:

"It is a Missouri novel, with some of the scenes laid in Kansas City. I hope I haven't slipped up on the descriptions. It is a real farm novel. Most of the so-called farm novels start on the farm, but about the third chapter the hero packs the old patent grip and goes to the Great City. But mine doesn't. It opens in the hog lot and ends in the hay mow. There is probably more manure in it than in any other novel ever written in America. The big emotional climax is where the hero hauls out the spring manure and the mules run away.

"The story is laid on the farm where I was born and where I wrote my first stuff for The Star. It will probably be the first money we ever made out of that farm. I plowed corn there until I was 22 and then drifted off to the fast life of the city. I am planning on running back to Missouri in October to get material for a new novel."

Now that you're looking over the Fall Wardrobe---

About this time of year you will begin going through the family wardrobe, sorting out apparel for Fall and Winter. And, of course, like every family, your folk have garments that are "too good to throw away," yet not quite presentable for wear.

There is that wonderful evening gown, for instance. A wee bit faded, perhaps, yet treasured because it is "such lovely material." The cleaner's art will make it radiantly fresh again. Just the thing for those early Fall parties—until you look around and decide just how you'll have the new one made.

And, would you believe it, we can clean that luxurious ostrich fan so perfectly one would declare it to be a brand new creation, fresh from the shop.

Now, too, is the time to brighten curtains, draperies, table covers and cushions, and bring a note of cheerfulness to liven those dark, dreary Fall days.

What a relief it is to be able to turn over these garments and household plenishings to a responsible cleaning establishment! No fussing or mussing. No costly experiments. No loss of time or temper. We call for your bundle and deliver everything charmingly fresh and spotless.

Why "Take a Chance?"

More than a million dollars worth of fabrics are ruined each year by persons who take a chance with "home treatments."

Why gamble with your garments?

Epinard Races in Classy Field of 12 Entries Today

The first of the three international races in which Epinard, the famous French thoroughbred, will race the best of America's stables, will be run this afternoon at Belmont Park. The race will be for 3-year-olds and over and the distance six furlongs, the purse $25,000. It will be the fourth race of the afternoon. The entries:

Worthmore, Miss Star, Wilderness, Epinard, Wise Counselor, Snob II, Gashawk, Ladkin, Rialtoo Baffling, Zev and Little Chief.

Although referred to as a French horse, here are some facts that apertain to his American relationship: He is descended from Tracery, one of August Belmont's American sires. He is trained by an American, Gene Leigh, and he is ridden in all his races by an American jockey, Everett Haynes.

Zev, Epinard's foremost contender is favorite for the short race, and is considered about the best sprinter on the track.

There are two more races besides the one today in which Epinard is scheduled to run:

September 27 at Aqueduct at a distance of one mile and on October 11 at Latonia track, distance one and one-fourth miles, for a purse of $50,000.

Epinard's Trainer and Judge Dawson Buddies

Eugene Leigh Was Exercise Boy for Fayette Smith During Years 1874-75 In Maryville.

The racing of Epinard, the 4-year-old French horse, that makes initial appearance at Belmont Park today, has more than unusual interest in the vicinity of Maryville, as the trainer, Eugene Leigh, is known here and attended the Maryville Public schools.

In 1874, Fayette Smith, who had a training stable on Second street, brought young Leigh from Illinois, then 12 years old, to Maryville as an exercise boy. He went to school here in 1874-75, according to Judge John M. Dawson, who was one of Leigh's playmates and chums.

Judge Dawson said this morning that Leigh is known by several of the old residents of the city who attended school at the time Leigh was here. Leigh went back to Illinois from Maryville and since then has owned a number of racing horses in the East before going to France as a trainer.

Washington Leads New York by One and Half Games

St. Louis Cuts Detroit's Lead for Third Place—Giants Leading Pittsburgh by 2 Games.

Much interest is being manifest in the race in the American League between the Senators and Yanks, with Detroit and St. Louis fighting for third position but there is also some attention being paid to the National League, featuring the sensational climb of the Pittsburgh club on the Giants.

Although Washington lost to the Yankees Saturday in a close struggle 1-2 with the losers getting more hits, the Capitol team came back yesterday and defeated New York in a ten inning fracas 4 to 2. This gives Washington a lead of a game and a half over New York.

Washington has won 74 and lost 55 games for a percentage of .574 and New York has won 71 and lost 55 games for a percentage of .563. Mogridge and Marberry pitched for the Senators while Bush hurled for the Yanks. Rice, playing right field, knocked a double in the tenth inning, scoring Ruel and Leibold, that brought in the winning runs for Washington. Today Washington plays a double-header with Philadelphia and New York is scheduled for a double-header with Boston.

St. Louis cut Detroit's percentage for third place to two games, winning 14 to 4. Detroit has won 68 and lost 59 games for a percentage of .536 and St. Louis has won 66 and lost 61 games for a percentage of .520.

Pittsburgh by defeating Chicago 2 to 0 yesterday cut New York's lead to two games. Brooklyn made a clean sweep of the series with New York and won from the Giants 3 to 2. Cincinnati defeated St. Louis 5 to 4. Standing of the five leading teams in the National League:

New York .605; Pittsburg .589; Brooklyn .571; Chicago .544; and Cincinnati .519.

We never try to get even with our enemy when that enemy is ourself.

AUGUST A WARMER MONTH THAN USUAL

MEAN TEMPERATURE FOR THE MONTH WAS 77.4 DEGREES.

PRECIPITATION SLIGHT

Hottest Day of Month August 26 When Mercury Climbed to 100—Lowest 51 on August 10.

The weather for the month just passed was marked by higher temperatures than the average and a slight amount of rainfall. The highest temperature recorded by J. R. Brink, official weather observer, was 100 degrees on August 26, and the lowest temperature during the month was 51 degrees, recorded on August 10.

Mr. Brink reports that the mean maximum temperature for August was 90.6 degrees while the mean minimum temperature was 64.2 degrees. The mean temperature for the month was 77.4 degrees.

The mean term temperature for the month of August since Mr. Brink has been recording the weather is 73.7, the mean temperature for the month just past being thus 3.7 degrees higher.

The highest mean temperature was recorded in August, 1913, when it was 81.3 degrees and the lowest mean temperature for the same month was recorded at 68.4 degrees in 1915.

Mr. Brink gives the reason for the mean minimum temperature of 64.2 degrees during the past month on account of the night temperatures when the mercury fell below the 70 mark.

The highest temperature that Mr. Brink has ever recorded was August 4, 1918, when Maryville blistered under a burning sun, the thermometer rising to 110 degrees. The lowest temperature that he has officially recorded was on August 27, 1906, and again August 26, 1910, when 45 degrees was registered.

Mr. Brink reports that only 1.66 inches of precipitation was noted during the month just past. The highest amount of rainfall was in 1903 when 11.63 inches of precipitation was recorded and the lightest amount of precipitation during any August on record is .52 of an inch in 1909. Mr. Brink reported nineteen clear days, eight cloudy days and four partially cloudy days during August, 1924.

The precipitation yesterday up until 7 o'clock this morning was .27 of an inch, Mr. Brink said this noon.

Union Services are Concluded Last Night

Rev. B. F. Cline Delivers Sermon on "Christ and His Cross"—Many Persons are Present.

The last of the series of union church services during the summer months was concluded last night when the Rev. B. F. Cline delivered a sermon on that of "Christ and His Cross."

The keynote of the Rev. Cline's talk was the fact that when persons come to the place to take up their cross the physical body might shirk the duty imposed upon it but if the person will ally himself with his religion he will then go forth to bear his burden as did Christ at Gallilee.

"Some people marvel that Christ did shirk from the last task imposed upon Him but this is not to be marveled at if we would realize that Jesus was in the physical the same as you and I," said the Reverend Cline, "but Christ was divine in His soul and so when He found that the task of bearing the cross was required He did not shirk."

"When we come to pray our prayers we find ourselves answering these prayers ourselves if they are made in the proper spirit. While we may ask to be relieved of some of our duties, yet when we find that these are inevitable we will go on our way and bear our cross just as Jesus did," concluded the Reverend Mr. Cline.

Preceding the preaching, a vocal solo, "I Am a Pilgrim," was given by Fred Lewis.

A large crowd attended the services which were held at the Presbyterian Church.

OLD FRIENDS MEET.

Prince, one of the equestrian members of Battery C, met his old friend and former rider while at Camp Fort Riley this summer. Prince was tied to a supply wagon when instruction Sergeant Newland passed by and recognized the horse.

Sergt. Newland, according to Brint Embree of the local battery gave a peculiar whistle and called the horse by name. Prince turned and recognized Newland and nearly broke his halter in an attempt to go to where Newland was standing.

A few minutes later, according to members of the local battery, it was hard to tell who was the most pleased in the accidental meeting, the horse or the man.

Prince served with Sergeant Newland from 1917 to 1921. In addition to the regular service Prince is a high hurdler and has cleared the bars at 6 ft., 5 inches. A number of pictures of Prince were in the possession of Sergt. Newland, which showed the horse in action on the high hurdles.

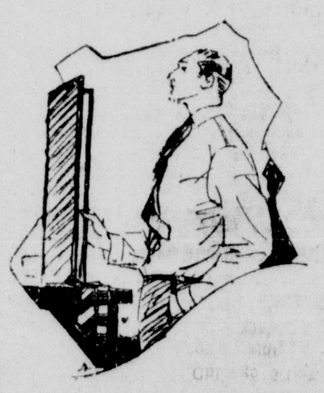
Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes

Among those who fan the flame of Knowledge, clothes--in spite of what the poet said--have a lot to do with "making the man." That is why we sincerely recommend to Collegian and High School students Hart Schaffner & Marx New Fall Suits. They are "English" with loose, boxy coats, wide trousers --- and broad, rolling lapels, and they are made of imported and domestic woolens in all the new autumn shades.

THEY'RE "TOPPING" these new LION and STETSON HATS for Fall.

"FLASH" the best impression with one of our new fall ties. Polo Dots, Ties of the fancy stripes and others, imported knits. Not a one but what expresses good taste.

The Montgomery-Cummins method of buying, of sending a buying representative to the East several times a year insures to the men and young men of Nodaway County the perfect correctness of dress which is a necessary asset nowadays in social and business life everywhere.



They're the "call," the new EAGLE and MANHATTAN SHIRTS for College men.
